

A commitment to supporting meaningful opportunities for First Nations people

At Kirra Services we are passionate about building business partnerships that create real opportunities for First Nations people. We are proud to support a range of initiatives and not-for-profit organisations that work to uplift regional and remote communities around Australia and the Torres Strait.

Cyber Pathway Program

Our Cyber Program is creating pathways for people living in regional and remote areas to explore a career in the cyber industry. The program is breaking down barriers by giving people skills to move into permanent employment and deliver real value to the Australian Cyber industry.

Portable Aboriginal Communication Environment

Kirra Services has donated the mobile unit to support the Dr Steve Burroughs Foundation in delivering a Portable Aboriginal Communication Environment (PACE) to deliver reliable and fast internet access to remote communities.

- The program provides reliable IT services by enabling internet connections at speeds like those in urban environments to help communities stay connected with important health, education and employment services.

Boots for Indigenous

In partnership with local Soccer Club O'Connor Knights, iDiC, Toll, Motivate Football Academy and Oxide, Kirra Services has established an initiative collecting football boots and other sporting equipment to send to remote communities.

The program is all about helping kids to stay active and create opportunities for young people and rising sporting talent in Indigenous communities.

Donate a Device

Kirra and LifeCycle Plus offer government departments the option to sell or donate depreciated assets to Indigenous students and communities.

Through this program we have donated devices to students studying at the Canberra Institute of Technology's (TAFE), Indigenous Digital Literacy program, the Bega High School, Dr Steve Burroughs Foundation and our Cyber training pathway.
